Hitchcock, of Geauga, on the Bill to Prevent Giving Aid to Fugitive Slaves Again are these questions pressed upon us, and we are led to inquire, Where is all this to end? We have refused to pass laws for the more perfect protection of the free people of the State, and have passed a law, most odious in its features, to prevent the amalgamation of the white with the black race; because, forsooth, the patriotism of some gentlemen led them to feel that it would be a panacea to cure the injured feelings of our Southern brethren.
